DEMOCRATIC NATIONAL CONVENTION FORMALLY LAUNCHED COX, PALMER AND M'ADOO ARE SEEN AS "BIG THREE"

Boom For McAdoo May Not Be Delayed Until After First Balloting Has Occurred

COX AND PALMER SHOWING STRENGTH

Deep Interest in Personnel Of The Resolutions Committee

Impending Prohibition Fight Continues in Limelight.

(By Associated Press)

San Francisco, June 28.—Assembling at noon today for their first sessions, delegates to the Democratic National Convention heard a keynote speech by National Chairman Cummings and perfected preliminaries clearing the way for the real work of finding a presidential candidate.

Twelve o'clock noon was fixed for the opening; but hours before, ticket holders gathered in the spacious building, which, for the occasion, seats more than 12,000 persons.

Those who did not hold tickets were barred from approaching the main entrance by fences hidden by a screen of California evergreens.

Decorations of the convention hall were simple and tasteful, with the Stars and Stripes as the dominant feature of the beautiful display.

The seats of the 1,092 delegates were compactly assembled close to the platform and stretched almost across the width of the hall. Here and there stood the state and territorial standards, made of California redwood, showing the location of the delegates.

With the preliminaries over, the four big convention committees will promptly get down to work. The greatest interest, as usual, centers in the Committee on Resolutions, where the party issues will be fought out with good prospects that some of them will reach the convention floor for final decision.

In the meantime, managers of presidential booms were keeping in touch with delegates and working for position in the early balloting.

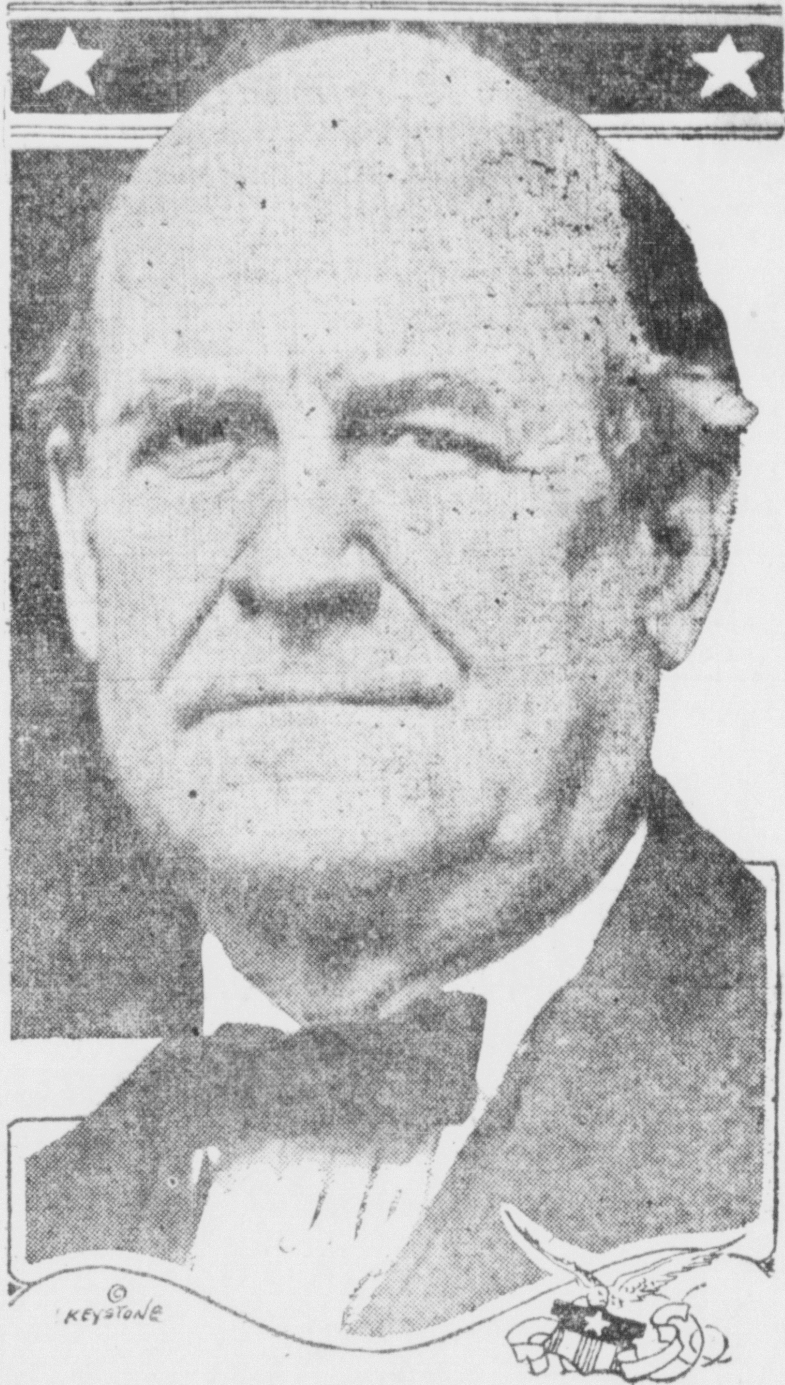

The keynote speech of Homer S. Cummings, as temporary chairman, was the principal feature of the day's program. The liveliest subject in the minds of the delegates manifestly was the impending prohibition fight. But talk of candidates was gaining more and more attention.

The latest turn of the McAdoo boom furnished a new angle to the convention preliminaries. Announcement that the former secretary of the treasury, despite his declaration that he did not want the nomination, would be willing to accept it, was variously accepted.

By some, it was declared the development meant that McAdoo, whose supporters hitherto had planned to keep him in the background for several ballots, now would be an active contender from the start, and that in consequence the convention might, like that of the republicans at Chicago, have a "big three" running close together on the opening roll call.

The possibility of such a development brought renewed claims of consistent gains from the supporters of Palmer and Cox and set the dark horses champing impatiently.

Record of Republicans in Senate Pointed Out as Against Their Pledges.

(By Associated Press)

San Francisco, June 28.—In his keynote address delivered before the National Democratic Convention at the opening session today, Temporary Chairman Homer S. Cummings said in part:

"Ladies and Gentlemen of the convention:

"At this high hour when the destinies not only of political parties but of peoples are at stake; when unrest is at stake; when social unrest is everywhere apparent; when existing forms of government are being challenged, and their very foundations disturbed or swept away, it is well for us, here in America, to pause for a period of solemn deliberation.

"We, who assemble in this great convention, counsel together, not merely as members of a party, but as children of the Republic. Love of country and devotion to human service should purge our hearts of all unworthy or misleading motives. Let us fervently pray for a Divine Blessing upon all that we do or undertake. Let us pledge ourselves anew to equality of opportunity; the unity of our country above the interests of groups or classes; and the maintenance of the high honor of America in her dealings with other nations.

"The Democratic party is an untangled party—a free party—owing no allegiance to any class or group or special interests. We were able to take up and carry through to success the great progressive program outlined in our platform of 1912. During the months which intervened between March 4th, 1913, and the outbreak of the World War, we placed upon the statute books of our country more of effective, constructive and remedial legislation than the Republican Party had placed there in a generation.

"If the Democratic Party had accomplished nothing more than the passage of the Federal Reserve Act, I would be entitled to the enduring gratitude of the nation. This Act supplied the country with an elastic currency controlled by the American people. Panics—the recurring phenomena of disaster which the Republican Party could neither control nor explain—are now but a memory.

"And then the Great War came on. Ultimately, by the logical steps of necessity, our peace-loving nation was drawn into the conflict. The neces-

Would Have Democrat Party Pledge Nation to Rid Country of Profiteer And Prevent His Return

SAN FRANCISCO, JUNE 28.—(Associated Press)

—State commissions similar to the federal commission to prevent profiteering are a feature of a plank proposed by William J. Bryan. It is in part as follows:

"The Democratic Party pledges the nation to rid it of the profiteer and to close the door against the return. It will endeavor to eliminate all unnecessary middlemen by the encouragement of organizations among producers that will bring those who sell and those who use nearer together. It will enact and enforce laws that will effectively prevent excessive charges by such middlemen as are necessary. To this end it will demand legislation subjecting to the penalties of the criminal laws all corporate officers and employees who give or carry out instructions that result in extortions. It will make it unlawful for anyone engaged in inter-state commerce to make the sale of one article dependent upon the purchase of another and will require such corporations to disclose to customers the difference between cost price and selling price or limit the profit that can be legally charged as the rate of interest is now limited.

"It will also endeavor to create in the several states state commissions with powers as ample as the federal trade commission and to enact laws to authorize each community to create similar commissions for investigation of local charges of profiteering."

Another plank dealing with the treaty of Versailles and the League of Nations is to be made public tomorrow by Mr. Bryan.

SEEKING HARMONY IN RANKS OF G. O. P.

Harmonizing Elements of Republican Party in Ohio Is Chief Work at State Convention.

Willis May Withdraw for U. S. Senatorship—Daugherty And Boyd As Electors.

(By Associated Press)

Columbus, O., June 28.—Harmonizing the various elements of the republican party with a special view to eradicating any ill feeling that cropped out during the Harding-Wood primary fight promises to be the chief function of the Republican State convention which convenes here tomorrow, outside of the routine of adopting a platform and selecting presidential electors. Even in the adoption of a platform and selecting delegates the harmony idea probably will be uppermost.

One of the big strokes in the harmony program now being planned is expected to result in the selection of Harry M. Daugherty, Senator Harding's pre-convention campaign manager, and Whm. H. Boyd, Wood delegate-at-large to the Chicago convention as the state presidential electors-at-large.

Rumors were current today that former Governor Frank B. Willis was to withdraw from the race for United States Senator to succeed Senator Harding. No one could be found, however, to either verify or discredit the rumor.

THEY'RE SO GOOD

I Just Love Edgemont Crackers

THANK you mother for putting them in my lunch.
All of the girls in our troop like them so much.

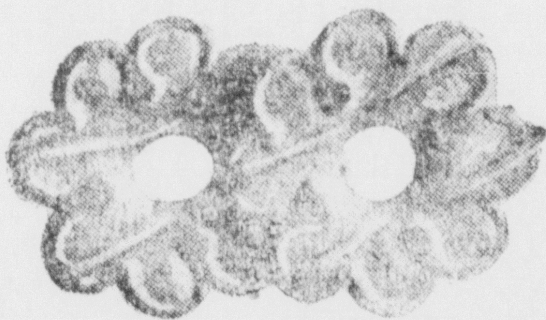

Whenever we go for a hike or have a lunch outdoors, we just can't get enough of them.

Then you always let me have all I want any time I want them because you say they can't hurt me even if they do taste so good.

And aren't the Edgemont Cookies and Cakes good! There are so many different kinds—Daisy Jumbles, High Schools, Panama Cookies, Cherry Blossoms, Ginger Snaps, Lemon Bon Bons, and a lot more.

I don't know which I like best—guess I like them all best. Because every time you send me to our grocery for "Edgemont" Cookies, Cakes or Crackers, I can hardly wait till I get home to taste them.

HAVE YOU TRIED

The Edgemont—DAISY JUMBLES

Delicious rich sugar cakes like grandmother used to make when sugar, milk and eggs were plentiful. Named "Daisy Jumbles" because of their design and uncommonly good "eating" qualities.

Not only are Edgemont—Daisy Jumbles a dessert in themselves, but with strawberries or other fruits, with hot or cold beverages, and with ice cream or frozen desserts, they make these good-things taste more delightful.

Serve Edgemont—DAISY JUMBLES—you'll satisfy your family's craving for sweets—and save your sugar for baking fruit.

Girls and Boys Differ

In what they see. That was well illustrated in our bakery a short time ago.

A class of sturdy, upstanding boys from St. Mary College, just crossing the threshold of manhood, made a trip through our bakery. They were interested most in seeing the "wheels go round."

They saw the stores of materials and noted the well-known brands of quality products—the materials from which the large variety of "Edgemont" products are made. The big mixers, bleeding the materials, and kneading the dough so thoroughly, so cleanly, claimed their attention. It was hard to pull them away from the machines that were rolling, forming and cutting the Cookies, Cakes and Crackers.

Our bakery is always open for inspection. We shall be glad to have more girls and boys—and women and men—to visit our plant. Our "itching" is always out for all.

You will then see why our Trade Mark stands for PURITY and WHOLESALENES.

Send Your Children to the grocery that is run by YOUR NEIGHBOR. You know that he will give your child the kind of good-things-to-eat that you like best.

And when the boy or girl asks for EDGEMONT Cookies, Cakes or Crackers you can be sure that you will get exactly what you want.

ATHLETICS BEAT THE COCA COLAS IN GREAT GAME

Air-Tight Pitching of Marcus and Morris Was Leading Feature of Game.

Noon Wins For Locals
When he Slams to the Fence in the Ninth—Big Crowd Attends.

Nine full innings were required to make the Washington Athletics winners over the Coca Colas of Cincinnati in a great pitchers' battle between Morris and Marcus at Sunnyside park Sunday afternoon which was finally settled with one man down and Suttles on base when Carl Noon, facing a righthander for the first time in the game hit one of Boehring's fast ones to the centerfield fence for a double and driving in the winning run.

Some of the fastest baseball ever played on the local grounds made possible the gruelling contest. Airtight pitching by Marcus and Morris featured the game and both youngsters were invaluable. In the nine innings that he worked Morris allowed but five scattered hits and he was scored on but twice, once in the first frame and in the final session. Marcus, known in Cincinnati, as the fingerless left-hander, granted but two hits in the eight innings that he held the center of attention, and one of these was the very thinnest sort, grounder to Naber, that fast fielding would have made an out. Marcus' left hand was badly mutilated in an explosion when he was a child, and part of the thumb, and the two first fingers are missing. His affliction has been his success for he is able to pitch in much the same manner that Mordred Brown, once famous major leaguer, held the sphere.

The Coca Cola representatives led off in the initial frame by getting a run with a hit batsman and a two barger. Washington went then one better and scored two. McCall went out to first base. Emery was hit by a pitched ball and went to first. Doyle got one of Washington's three hits when he singled over second. Emery going to third. Suttles was out. With Noon at bat Emery and Doyle engaged a perfect double steal and Emery scored. Doyle later scored from third by making a try for home and causing Marcus to make a wild pitch.

Thus the scoring was accomplished and from then on, inning after inning nothing came from the scene of play except an endless array of zeros that were shelled out in exact succession.

Then in the ninth frame the bugs were leaving for it looked like a Washington victory with the score 2 to 1. With two men down, two strikes on the batter, the unexpected happened, and the game seemed to be wrested from the Athletics. Ferguson had been an easy out. Kelley had gone the same route on strikes. But Leib-ing was lucky and blazed one out for two bases. This unnerved Morris and he walked Dastling. Manager Sims of the Coca Colas used his head and sent in a pinch hitter. Bell hit for Marcus and poled out a neat single that put Leibing across with the tying run and the winning run on first.

Morris strengthened and got Keeman an a grounder.

But by putting in Bell, Simms had removed his clever left hander from the pastime and what had seemed a brilliant move had only prolonged the game. Carl Noon saw Boehring go to the bull pen and start to warm up and he grinned for Boehring pitched with his right arm and this style of hurling is much to the barber's liking for he had been helpless before the slants of Marcus. Doyle went out short to first. Suttles worked the new pitcher for a pass. Then Noon came up with a wicked stick and the ball landed against the boards of the fence between right and center.

IN THE LINE-UP
AT CONVENTIONCombination Against McAdoo Is Rumored But Given Little Consideration.Cox Divorce of Ten Years Ago
Dragged Up by Opponents

(By Associated Press)

San Francisco, June 28. — Little change was apparent in the line-up of strength between the Cox and Palmer forces and the chiefs of each were working to make the best possible showing on the early ballot.

There was talk of a combination against McAdoo but it was in the run of gossip which developed nothing when efforts were made to trace it.

The attitude of the Cox managers toward publication here on the eve of the convention of the governor's divorce of ten years ago was to ignore it entirely.

Edmund H. Moore, manager for the Cox candidacy, said he has no statement to make, and referred inquiries to "anybody from Dayton," Governor Cox's home town, to learn what Ohio people most familiar with the circumstances thought.

Cox delegates pointed out that in a long and active political career against bitter opposition the divorce case had never been brought into a campaign.

Other leaders indicated that the published story was an attempt to play on any sentiment against divorce that might exist among women delegates. The Cox people today were conducting an investigation to develop who brought out the story at this time and to make plain the object.

KEYNOTE SPEECH

War legislation was quickly supplied.

"The Republicans have now been in control of the Senate and the House for more than a year. They won the election of 1918 upon the faith of alluring promises. They said that they would earnestly support the President, at least, until the tasks of war were finished. It was their contention that they would enter upon the work of reconstruction with superior intelligence and even with greater patriotism than would be possible under Democratic leadership. They gave publicity, when they entered upon the recent session, to detailed and ambitious statements as to their program. If we are to be judged, as I hope we may be, by the record, let them also be judged by the record. What have the Republicans accomplished since their political success in 1918? What beneficial results have flowed to the American people? What promises have been redeemed? What progress has been made in the settlement of foreign or domestic questions?

The Cause of Peace.

"The war had set a great task for statesmanship. The best thought of the world demanded that a serious attempt be made by the leaders of the allied governments to formulate a Treaty of Peace which should prevent the recurrence of war. Every right impulse of the human heart was in accord with that purpose. From time immemorial, men have dreamed of peace; poets have sung of it; philosophers have written about it; statesmen have discussed it; men everywhere have hoped and prayed that the day might come when wars would no longer be necessary in the settlement of international differences.

The Requirements of Honor.

"There are men who seem to be annoyed when we suggest that American honor is bound up in this contest, and that good faith requires that we should enter the League of Nations. The whole Republican case is based upon the theory that we may, with honor, do as we please about this matter and that we have made no promises which it is our duty to redeem."

Has Bryan Overreached?

Interest in the Democratic National Convention at San Francisco is centering now more on what the result of its endeavors to build a party platform, will be rather than in the success of any one of the several candidates for the presidential nomination.

As the preliminary work nears completion and the formal organization of the convention proceeds, there is some indication, clearly manifesting itself, of an intention on the part of the delegates to, in so far as possible, evade a square out declaration on the vital subjects and thus avoid the possibility of a split among the leaders.

The platform adopted by the Republican National Convention is a model of the constructive genius possessed by political builders. If the democrats at San Francisco are ambitious to build a platform upon which all can stand in comfort, no matter what the conflicting opinions may be, they could not do better than to follow the Chicago plan.

It is difficult to see, at this time, however, just how it will be possible for the democratic convention to evade the issues, on the peace treaty, especially, which are forced upon it by the irreconcilable elements.

The administration forces—the friends of President Wilson—seem to be in complete control of the organizations and the opposing forces to win must take their fight into the convention.

With the arrival on the scene of Mr. Bryan the next few hours may place an entirely different coloring on the future probabilities.

It seems now exceedingly improbable that Mr. Bryan will succeed in his fight for a bone dry plank in the platform. Not only will he find the majority of the delegates opposed to him on that proposal, but he will find the majority of the voters sustaining the delegates in their determination to omit, from the platform any declaration on prohibition. The great majority of the American people look upon prohibition as settled and they want an end to the discussion of it.

Mr. Bryan's political generalship is a little difficult to understand in the first stages. Frequently what has seemed a political blunder has developed into the most adroit political strategy.

It does seem that Mr. Bryan in concentrating all his endeavors for a prohibition, bone dry, plank has weakened his power on other platform issues.

Developments only will disclose whether Mr. Bryan is still the expert political leader and general or whether this is the time he has overreached himself and is doomed to failure.

Prices and Investments

In spite of the promise of lower prices which the short session of "slashing" sales a few weeks ago seemed to offer, there is no marked falling off in the cost of the essentials.

The shortage of labor on the farms cannot fail to record its influence on the prices of foodstuffs during the coming year and to keep prices of food high, perhaps make them higher.

One hopeful development which seems permanent is the increase in the available labor supply. The workers are drifting back to the farm. Slowly, but nevertheless noticeably, the tide cityward seems to have been checked and turned back. The thousands of workers are beginning to realize that the big wages offered in the cities mean nothing in the end. Then too the closing of non-essential industries for lack of financial support has deprived thousands of employment at high wages.

The efforts of the government to withdraw financial support from speculative channels and non-essential industries, has been, to some extent, nullified by the reckless investment of prosperous individuals.

When the bankers refuse to furnish financial aid the individual is sought out and induced by promise of large interest rates to take a chance which the financiers decline.

Individuals should not, as a general thing, loan nor invest where bankers decline. In doing so they are incurring risk and also interfering with the financial program designed to bring about more normal conditions.

Especially in a farming community should people be careful to hold their investments in safe lines indicated by the financial program approved by the bankers.

HOOVER COULD HAVE BEEN THE 'FRISCO NOMINEE HAD HE WISHED

His Decision to Eliminate Himself From The Democratic Primaries

Made Him Ineligible and Had Consequences Vital to American History.

BY MARK SULLIVAN
(Copyright 1920)

San Francisco, Cal., June 27.—In the midst of the talk about men who are in the situation, consider one who is out of it.

There is not the faintest doubt that if Hoover had not eliminated himself from the Democratic party, there would not be any discussion as to who the Democratic nominee would be. Every body would have known that it would be Hoover and further than that, nearly everybody competent to weigh would have felt certain that Hoover would have had, to express it with the smallest degree of mildness an equal chance to win against Harding.

That decision which Hoover reached last 31st of March, to take himself out of the Democratic situation and announce himself a Republican, had consequences vital to American political history. What motives within himself or what reason from without himself Hoover may have had to make that decision would be interesting to know. Probably as in most cases the motives and reasons were mixed and not easy to distinguish, probably, and this also is characteristic of many such situations, Hoover himself could not accurately say just why he did it. Necessarily there must have been much thought preceding the decision—thought both for his own fortunes and for the public good.

By every law that governs human conduct he must have supposed he was doing the thing which would both give him the greatest opportunity for public service, and also would be best for the country. Hoover loves America. The cartoons and innuendos of his political opponents that represent him as pro-British or pro-anything else but American are merely the slander that picks up the nearest brick. Hoover has for America the almost exaggerated affection that an exile often has for home. And yet one wonders, whether Hoover would not have served the country better by continuing his early attitude of non-partisanship, of no allegiance to either party, or being above both parties and a little better than any party. That this course would have more greatly furthered whatever ambition he has to be president everybody who knows politics will admit, that it would have served the country better as your correspondent's conviction. There is in this country a growing independent vote—a vote which not merely refuses allegiance to parties, but rather lack of allegiance to them. This independent vote is close to being a deciding factor in American politics. It is the balance of power vote. Of this vote Hoover was the hero. He could have led where he would. If Hoover had stuck to his independent position he would have had three chances, all of them superb opportunities for service: His first chance and this was perhaps the smallest of the three, was that he might get the Republican nomination, because he fear on the part of the Republicans that if they didn't take him the Democrats would. His second opportunity, would have been to accept the Democratic nomination, that opportunity would have come to him without the shadow of a doubt. His third opportunity, would have been in some respect the most exalted of the three. That would have been to refuse any nomination, to regain his independence, to be a balance as power as between the parties and to hold over both the Democrats and the Republicans the threat of wholesome fear, that he would cast his influence and carry his following to the better nominee and the better platform he could have been either a candidate on the one or on the other hand, the spokesman and accepted leader of that independent vote which would cast the balance of power between all candidates. What processes of thought within himself or what persuasions from other led him to give up this unique position is a matter of speculation where every politician meets for gossip. He had three wonderful chances and he destroyed all three by the single act of aligning himself with the Republican party.

During the recent meeting of politicians in Chicago, there was current in the gossip of the lobbies two variations of what purported to be the story of Hoover's identifying himself with the Republicans. One of the versions was published in a local paper at the time. The story may or may not be true, indeed it struck your correspondent as having the characteristics of that sort of story which never really happened but which is invented to illustrate a situation and to make a complex thing simple. Nevertheless, the very existence of the story does make clear the advantage which the Republican party won by getting Hoover to identify himself with them before the convention.

The story represents Hoover as going, last March, to one of the Republican leaders, a leader who is identified with the party management—to discuss his personal, political problem. He is represented as having said to this leader that he had been approached by so many Democrats with assurances of support that he was compelled to regard it as apparent that he could get the Democratic nomination if he wanted it. The story further pictured him as saying to this Republican leader that he would prefer the Republican nomination for the reason that it seemed to him that there was likely to be a Republican congress and that as president he could get more things done if he had a sympathetic congress. The story represented him as finally saying or intimating that he would prefer the Republican nomination, and letting the Republican leader understand that he would be willing to accept it.

The story then, in the manner of such stories, represents the Republican leader as putting on his poker face and saying that he was very much interested and that he would like to discuss the idea further, but that he could not possibly take any steps in the matter so long as Mr. Hoover was not formally a Republican. The leader was represented as taking the view that it would be improper for him to even continue the conversation, that it would be a breach of his trust to Republican party to have any further discussion with Mr. Hoover, looking to the Republican nomination for the Presidency, so long as Mr. Hoover was not himself a member of the Republican party.

Then the story again taking for granted the obvious and the selfish motive, represents Mr. Hoover as having gone out and announced himself a Republican in order to qualify himself for further negotiations. At that point of the story as told among politicians, stops, leaving the inferences to the imagination of the hearers, but readers who are not familiar with the technique of politics will not object to being told what the inferences were. What Mr. Hoover thought he had accomplished was that he had qualified himself for the Republican nomination and might feel fairly well assured that he could get it. But the Republican leaders idea of what happened was quite different from Mr. Hoover's. The Republican leader's idea of what had happened was that he had shrewdly led Mr.

THE REPORT OF THE RESOLUTIONS COMMITTEE IS NOW IN ORDER

Hoover into a trap, that the net result of the episode was that the Republican leader had performed for his party the very marked service of eliminating from the running the most formidable candidate the Democratic party could possibly name. If that story, or anything like it, ever really happened, then that Republican leader deserves high reward from his party.

Your correspondent by no means vouches for the story. Far from it. On the contrary even if anything did take place even approaching this conflict of innocence and guile, it probably did not reduce itself to any such definite and dramatic form as this. Even assuming Mr. Hoover's motives to be those of the crudest personal ambition, it is inconceivable that a man who has held his own in the mining market should remain so inexperienced a trader as to let himself be hornswoogled.

In such a negotiation as this, anyhow, if the story is true, it will come out some time, but even though it be largely suppositions the story does give a picture of the extent to which the dominant forces in the Republican party strengthened their position and Hoover weakened his by lining up with the Republican party in advance of the convention. Regardless of what led to it, that day last March when Hoover announced that he was not a Democrat but a Republican and would not let himself be eligible for the Democratic nomination, whether Hoover did this on his judgment or was led into it by the shrewd devices of others that day was the day when the Republican party took the longest step toward victory that it has taken this year. The only reason for telling this story here now is the fact that today less than a week in advance of the Democratic nomination it is as clear as anything in politics can be that Hoover, if he had made himself a Republican would have got the Democratic nomination and would have had, in what is reasonably competent judgment more than an even chance to beat Harding, and now within three days the Democratic convention will proceed to pick a nominee from among seventeen candidates, of whom only one has anything like Hoover's ability and none of whom has anything like the chance of success that Hoover would have had.

The annual Rowe, reunion and the celebration of Mrs. M. J. Van Pelt's birthday, a combined event eagerly anticipated each year was held Saturday in the beautiful grove at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Roberts on the Staunton pike.

Sixty members of this large and well known family assembled and the reunion was one of the most delightful ever held. The perfect day, the ideal surroundings and the pleasure of the reunion all contributed. Mr. and Mrs. Roberts and daughter, Miss Blanche, freely extended the hospitality of their home as well as the grove.

The picnic dinner, always a sumptuous spread, was arranged on one long table, with a beautiful birthday cake, blazing with candles in the center.

Mrs. Ada Jones gave an interesting account of her trip through the Royal Gorge and Mr. I. N. Rowe made a brief talk.

By strange co-incidence many members of this family have birthdays in June, and it has been an established custom to hold the annual gathering upon "Aunt Jane" Van Pelt's natal day. Miss Sieber, a decided and striking brunette, looked very pretty in black taffeta, with deep flouncing of chantilly lace.

SAD DEATH FOLLOWS
MONTHS OF ILLNESS

The home of Mr. Floyd Dowler in Millwood, was deeply saddened Saturday night at 9:30 o'clock when the wife and mother answered the eternal summons at the age of 32 years, following an extended illness of a tubercular nature.

Three small children survive with the husband, besides many friends and relatives.

Short services were held at the home Monday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock with Rev. Leeth officiating and burial was made in the Washington cemetery.

COUNTRY HOME OF W. W. HINES LOST IN FIRE

Farm Hand is Rescued From Burning House by Charles Cook and son Russel Who Chop Their Way Through Flames.

Loss of Eight Room Modern Country Home Valued at Thousands of Dollars is Partly Covered by Insurance.

Fire, believed to have originated from a flue in the attic, completely destroyed the modern country home of William W. Hines, at Blessings Crossing, three miles north of Jeffersonville, about two o'clock Sunday afternoon.

At the time of the fire Mr. and Mrs. Hines, who are well known all over Fayette and Madison counties, were in Springfield, and there was no one at home but a farm hand, who was asleep in the house.

When discovered by Charles Cook, a farmer who lives nearby on the Hine land, the flames had almost completely enveloped the large home. With his son Russell they rushed to the fire, knowing that the farm hand was asleep in the burning house and finding all the doors locked they chopped their way in with an ax and rescued the sleeper. They were able to save only a few household articles of value.

Mr. and Mrs. Hines did not return from Springfield until late Sunday evening, then found their beautiful home in ruins, the shock was great. Mrs. Hines suffered an attack of heart trouble which made medical care necessary. Mr. and Mrs. Hines, with their two adopted children, and guests, who had returned with them, were given shelter by a neighbor.

The Hines home was one of the handsome modern homes of northern Fayette. Situated on a small hill it could be seen for miles and was always kept freshly painted by the owner. Only recently it had been remodeled and had all the luxuries of city property. It had eight rooms and was richly furnished.

The loss was partly covered by insurance. Mr. Hines will probably rebuild on the same site.

TRUCKS DRAG DAMAGE 700 TIES

The ends of more than seven hundred railroad ties were chopped off or damaged about midnight Saturday when a journal on the trucks of a Pennsylvania freight train broke and allowed the trucks to drag. The car loaded with merchandise was in the center of an eastbound double header freight and it was dragged to this city before the train crew discovered the damage.

By using the transfers on the other trucks of the city the cars behind the wreck were switched into place with those ahead. Sunday morning about six o'clock a wreck train from Lancaster arrived and placed the car in repair.

The train crew stated that had the freight been pulled by a single engine they would have been able to detect the car bumping over the ties when it broke about a mile west of the city.

SAY MCADOO TO ACCEPT IF CHOSEN

Friends of McAdoo Declare They Have Received Assurances That He Would Accept if Nominated.

Issues Rather than Men Expected to Furnish Battleground at Convention.

(By Associated Press)

San Francisco, June 27.—Friends of William G. McAdoo have received what they characterize as an assurance that if nominated Mr. McAdoo will accept.

The definite statement that McAdoo would accept was made by Thomas Love, national committeeman from Texas. With the statement new life was injected into the McAdoo boom.

ISSUES FOREMOST

(By Associated Press)

San Francisco, June 27.—Issues rather than men furnish the battleground for the Democratic national convention. Candidates can not be considered until prohibition of the league of nations and the Irish question have been fought out on the floor.

The fight is over W. J. Bryan's determination to have a "platform no wet can run on." On this the administration forces appear so far to be pursuing a hands off policy.

While the question of issues is boiling, little change is shown in the lineup of strength of various candidates. Cox and Palmer are expected to go in for a test of strength on first ballot. The Cox people profess to have enough strength to eliminate Palmer on the preliminary ballots and then plan to pit their candidate against the field.

COULDN'T WALK UP AND DOWN STAIRS

Louisville Woman Is In Fine Health
Now—Is Grateful To Tanlac.

"It was five years ago," said Mrs. Mattie Martin, of 1710 Owen street, Louisville, Ky., "that Tanlac restored my health and I am still feeling strong and well."

"Since that time Tanlac has been the favorite medicine with my family. We all take it occasionally and it keeps my children's cheeks red and rosy. In fact, Tanlac has been such a fine thing for us all that you might call us a regular Tanlac family."

"I was in a nervous run-down condition and for six months before I began taking Tanlac I was so weak I couldn't walk up and down the steps. In fact I was almost a complete nervous wreck, couldn't sleep at night and even the children playing around would nearly drive me distracted. I had no appetite, and as fond as I am of certain kinds of vegetables I couldn't eat them, because my stomach was in such a bad condition. Nothing agreed with me and I felt so bad that life seemed hardly worth living."

"But my troubles soon disappeared when I got Tanlac, and six bottles made me feel like a new person. It built me up and strengthened me so I could do my work, something I had not been able to do in months, and I am just as strong and well today as one could ask to be. I sleep well at night, eat anything I want, do all my cooking, ironing house cleaning, take care of my four children without any trouble at all. Now when any of the family complains of feeling bad I start them on Tanlac and it soon sets them right. I have found it a perfectly grand family medicine and I can sincerely recommend it to every one, especially those who are suffering as I did."

Tanlac is sold in Washington by C. E. Haver, in Lowell by Mason's Drug Store, in Jeffersonville by J. B. Davis, in Octa by I. W. Murphy and in Milledgeville, E. L. Ford Sons, Lee Ortmann, Selden. — Advt.

WOMEN TO PLAY PROMINENT PART IN MANAGING HARDING CAMPAIGN

Whether the suffrage amendment is ratified or not, women are sure to play a prominent part in this year's presidential campaign. The Republican executive committee of seventeen which will manage the campaign for Harding has seven women members. Four of the more prominent of these are Mrs. Harriet Taylor Upton of Ohio, vice chairman of the committee; Mrs. Manley L. Fosseen of Minnesota; Mrs. Arthur Livermore of New York, and Mrs. John Glover South of Kentucky.

TONS OF MATERIAL ARRIVING IN CITY

Tons and tons of materials for the Andrews Asphalt Company have arrived at the South North street railroad crossing and are being heaped up for use in the big asphalt manufacturing plant which is expected in this city about the middle of July.

Great piles of stone, twenty car loads, arrived in this city last week, and were heaped up in yards. About the same number of cars of sand and several loads of dust have been unloaded on the scene.

So much material has arrived that the company officials are confident nothing can stop the work of laying asphalt when it has once been started.

30 BUSHEL WHEAT IN FAYETTE COUNTY

A man who has been over a large portion of Fayette county during the past ten days declares that where there are a great many fields of wheat in county that will produce 8 to 12 bushels of wheat to the acre, that some fields which are a little rolling and which permitted better drainage than the flat surface fields will produce around 30 bushels to the acre.

This man declares that the fields are not plentiful where such large yields may be expected, but further insists that 20 bushel yields will be very numerous in the fields where the surface is somewhat rolling.

BLACKBERRY CROP TO BE HEAVY ONE

With adequate rainfall from now until maturity, the blackberry crop this year will be almost as great as the bumper crop of last year, and it is believed that prices will be somewhat lower, due to the high price and scarcity of sugar. Local citizens who have been in some of the hill counties recently say that the berry bushes are covered with well developed green berries which will begin to ripen in some two weeks.

HOW MANDATE IS WORKING OUT UNDER LEAGUE

(By Associated Press)

Adrianople, (By Mail)—The French administration, accompanied by a small army of occupation, in Western Thrace, is being pointed to here as an example of the benefits a mandate would accomplish under the League of Nations.

The French civil administration began its work in the latter part of last November, and into a country full of warring bands of various nationalities, it has brought peace and order, permitted the planting of crops, and the normal pre-war life of the country to be pursued.

When the French took over the country every man's hand was raised against the other. Alarmist rumors

COULD NOT WORK FOR TWO MONTHS HAD RHEUMATISM

Marion man crippled up in his joints, muscles sore and drawn; his suffering was terrible. Dreco went to the bottom of his trouble, giving prompt relief.

"I was in such bad shape from rheumatism that I had to stop work about November 1st and laid off for two solid months, unable to go back on the job," says Mr. Albert Powell, who resides on East Center Street, Marion, O.

"The rheumatism was all over my body, in every joint and muscle, I believe. My muscles were sore and hard and felt like they were drawn up. My joints ached and seemed like they were dry; every move caused intense pain and I couldn't sleep from the suffering."

"I was in such bad shape that something had to be done, so I began taking Dreco, as it was spoken of so highly. I want these words published for the benefit of other sufferers. After being away from work two months, two bottles of Dreco did me so much good that I am again on the job every day, and my rheumatism is gone. I am getting a bottle of this grand medicine to take to a friend, who is in bad shape with rheumatism, and I feel sure it will overcome his troubles, just as it did mine."

Dreco is made from roots and herbs, which seem to drive out all traces of rheumatism. When the kidneys fail to strain the poisons from the blood, but remain in this vital fluid, rheumatism soon shows up and the patient suffers untold agonies. Dreco aids weak kidneys in eliminating these poisons, and that is why Dreco results are quick and lasting.

All good druggists now sell Dreco and it is being specially introduced here by about the arrival of the British and Greek, Bulgarian and Turkish troops were circulated frequently. The French took over the Bulgarian administration, and for the most part the Bulgarian civilian employees, whom the French found efficient, in order to insure the honesty of these officials, the French have adopted the system in many localities, where the Greeks are in majority of putting alongside of a Greek chief official, a Bulgarian secretary and vice versa in localities where the Turks or Greeks are in majority.

The French have in all, including constabulary, not more than 500 of their own chief administrators. These are generally officers detailed from the army who have had experience in the French colonies. Thus with the skeleton French staff, the French have been able to obtain a reasonable efficiency.

When the French came they had 1,500,000 francs put at their disposal by the their government for the administrative expenses but so far they have not spent one franc of this sum. They immediately levied indirect taxes and for the period they have been in the country there have practically been double the expenses of the civil administration.

Public order has been so easily maintained that in the district of Kara gatch only three French gendarmes, each with 12 local men under him, were required.

According to the French, the country would be reasonably prosperous, in view of its fertile soil, if order were maintained and the various nationalities were prevented from fighting.

ATHLETICS VICTORS AT JEFFERSONVILLE IN A FAST CONTEST

With Nip Jones on the mound and allowing but four small hits the Washington Athletics won a close game at Jeffersonville Saturday afternoon by the score of 2 to 1 Opposing Jones on the hit was Lape, well known hurler of the Dayton Triangles who had been imported for the occasion and whose spitball was a mystery to the Athletic.

Big Chief McCall was a factor in the victory for he batted in one run and scored the winning marker himself. Emery had batted and went to second. The chief singled him home. Then again when another run was needed and there were two down in the ninth Mc Call singled and went to second. The second baseman booted the ball and the Washington first sacker romped home.

Jeffersonville's one run was made by Lyn Mathews. Nip had booted Sport's nice grounder and had worked himself around to third. Dale Miller lifted a skyscraping heater to center and Mathews came home.

Many fans went up from this city to see the game and state that a return date will probably be sought by the Jeffersonville team.

Think It Over

450,000,000 Eggs laid Annually by Petaluma Hens. Are worth Approximately $14,000,000.

Petaluma is called the world's largest Egg Basket. It's just a little town of 600 but it's the richest city per capita in the world. Poultry alone made Petaluma. Poultry can be raised just as well in Fayette County. Give it a thought.

HOUSEKEEPER'S CONFESSION HELPS SOLVE IDENTITY OF ELWELL'S PINK PAJAMA GIRL

Mrs. Marie Larsen, the housekeeper, as she appeared before the district attorney.

Facts finally drawn from Mrs. Marie Larsen, housekeeper for Joseph B. Elwell, murdered sportsman and whist expert, and from the Elwell chauffeur, have completely established the identity of the wearer of the pink pajamas and cap found in Elwell's apartments the morning of his murder. Mrs. Larsen had the pajamas at first, refusing to divulge the exhibit. Later she told of a girl calling for them after the murder.

FORMAL OPENING OF OAKLAWN PARK TO BE JULY FIFTH

Formal opening of Oaklawn Park, new pleasure center which is being erected on the site of the old Utlick property on Clinton Avenue, will be made on Monday, July 5th, if plans of the owners work out satisfactorily. It was announced by Charles B. Johnson, one of the proprietors, Saturday morning.

The first building to be completed is the dance pavilion. The building is an enormous affair which has been erected along the most approved lines. It is claimed that the dance floor, when completed will be one of the finest in the state. A certain variety of hard pine has been used in its construction and an expert finisher will be here next week to apply the final touches.

The land stand is reaching proportions from which it's finished appearance may be judged and has been built to afford a real site for evening concerts. It is to be used by the Washington Band.

The theater for moving picture shows and vaudeville has not been started and ground has not been broken for the swimming pools but these two attractions are to be rushed to completion as soon as the two main structures have been completed.

Rhoda Royal Enormous Railroad Shows

The Greatest Circus of Modern Times.

Call all the others what you will, but when all is said and told and re-told, there is but one great Circus which is in every particular and detail the greatest and grandest of the entire world's circuses, and that is the Rhoda Royal's Enormous R. Under the greatest city of snow-white tents ever erected on any grounds will be seen fully one hundred—count them!—fully one hundred exalted stars, who will give one hundred and fifty superior and supreme acts, too numerous to classify, too many to name, too multifarious to describe. Bareback riding, hurdlings, trick, fancy and manege riding, aerial acts, grand gymnastics, tumbling, vaulting, leaping athletic and contortion feats juggling, equilibristic pole balancing, breaking ladders and other acts. Unique, Stately, Astonishing Aerial Stage and Aerial Performances not seen elsewhere. Many of them by foreign artists, plenty of them by home artists. Remember the date and don't miss the Big Show.
